BLACKSMITHS GO OUT FOR HELPER

Discharged for Wrangling With Assistant Paymaster

Committee Waits on Master Mechanic and Carry Case to Officers of Union.

REMARK ABOUT WHITE COLLAR

Because J. Carroll, assistant to Paymaster W. Newell, wore a stiff collar and shirt and refused to accommodate a blacksmith helper in the local Illinois Central shops, the Illinois Central blacksmith shops are idle today and the entire force of 31 blacksmiths and helpers is out on a strike.

It is said that it means either the removal of Carroll and reinstating the helper or a continuation of idleness in the blacksmith shops. The entire shops will be affected seriously if the matter is not remedied immediately.

"May I have my check now?" C. E. Averitt, the helper, asked of Carroll as the latter walked towards the door of the master mechanic's office to pay off the clerical force. The shops all over the system are paid by the assistant, who goes through them, and pays each man, where he works. Averitt worked just at the west end of the blacksmith shops at the "shears" and had left his place. Carroll ordered him back to his place and Averitt took offense at the way in which the order was given. He then remarked on Carroll's attire and said because Carroll wore a white shirt he thought he was better than working men. Carroll is alleged to have replied that he had better be careful with his language or he might lose his job. To this it is alleged Averitt stated that he would not lose much if he did.

Following this an order from the master mechanic's office came, discharging Averitt. Then a committee was appointed to wait on Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull and have Averitt reinstated.

The committee was composed of the following: John Smith, Mack Penn, T. C. Goodman, helpers; Barney B. Cearney, J. Ed Smith, Lindsay L. Lock, blacksmiths. Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull refused to put Averitt back to work.

Following the report to the union the entire force of helpers walked out and refused to work the remainder of the morning. The blacksmiths at noon quit and did not come back. This morning neither blacksmith nor helper showed up and the shop was idle.

Mr. Turnbull's Statement.

"I do not know why the men walked out and have sent for the committee for a conference as soon as one can be arranged," Master Mechanic Turnbull stated. "I have not been notified that a strike had been declared and consider that the agreement which is not yet 60 days old, to have been broken by the employees. The agreement gives employees power to appeal to higher authority, and this course was not pursued. I was informed that Mr. Carroll, who pays off in consecutive order, had started in to pay off the office first. Had he stopped to pay the helper off it would have been a great deal of trouble to run through several hundred checks, and this is why Averitt was told to return to his place and that he Carroll would reach him later. I am informed that Averitt told him that because he wore a stiff collar and shirt, or something to that effect, he did not think he was better than the workman, and when warned that it might cost him his job to talk so insultingly, he is said to have replied to the paymaster that he 'would not lose much.'"

"A man who talks like that can not remain in the employ of the road, and that is why I refused to reinstate him. The helpers and blacksmiths had the power to appeal, and should have done so, then a complete investigation could have been had in higher circles."

"As to the action of the blacksmiths, I am surprised. I considered that they went out at noon yesterday to have a meeting, but did not know they intended to strike. This morning the matter is looked upon as a strike, and it is unfortunately the wrong move for the men to make."

Foreman Jerome Smith's Statement. Foreman Jerome Smith, of the blacksmith shops, explained that the blacksmiths and helpers were organized nationally in one order known as the International Brotherhood of YOUTHFUL HIGHWAYMEN.

Confess to Murder in Park at San Francisco.

San Francisco, August 18.—With a coolness and nonchalance that amazed the police, Fred Peterson, Wm. Meares, Walter Westwood and Frank McAuliffe, four youths still in their teens, last night confessed that they are the quartet that committed a series of holdups, which culminated in the killing of Fred Mullineaux on the ocean boulevard last Sunday night.

BANK CLEARINGS KEEP UP RECORD

Nothing But Heavy Gains All Through Summer.

Retail and Wholesale Dealers Enjoying Unusual Trade and Prospects Are Bright.

LABOR FINDS PLENTY TO DO.

Bank clearings $718,745
Same week last year .. 618,764
Increase 99,981

Bank clearings again show an increase this week, maintaining the record of the summer, and indicating unusual activity clear up to the beginning of the fall trade.

Clearance sales in all the stores, which has caused a brace in the summer retail business, and the turning over of fall goods have given added impetus to both the wholesale and retail trade, and Paducah merchants have no cause to complain of their share of the country's prosperity.

Building continues with rumors of more extensive operations soon to start. A half dozen flat buildings are in process of construction in different parts of the city, and numerous small residences are going up.

The ways and dry docks are doing an unusually good business getting boats in shape for the season's rise, and this with the building and the municipal improvement work, which shows no signs of abating until cold weather puts an end to it, the extensive repairs to the street railway system, and the increased force in the Illinois Central shops, keeps labor well employed.

SHOOTING AIMLESS.

Two Negroes Fight French Duel and One Is Arrested.

HESSIG WILL

FILED FOR PROBATE IN THE COUNTY COURT TODAY.

Second Device Made Few Days Before Death Takes Care of Her Grandchildren.

The will of the late Mrs. Catrine Hessig, mother of Dr. Hermann T. Hessig, about whom so much interest has centered for the past several years, especially in the bankruptcy court, was filed for probate this morning in county court, but held up until Monday to prove by witnesses.

The will is dated August 12, 1906, and witnessed by Maurice Marks and W. F. Dambach.

The provisions of the will briefly are as follows: To her son Hermann T. Hessig she leaves two houses and lots at Eighth and Jackson streets. One is occupied by him and the other was her residence.

To her grandchildren, Carl and Freddie Hessig, sons of H. T. Hessig, now in the care of their mother, Dr. Hessig's first wife, she leaves all the houses beginning at Eighth and Jones streets, extending five houses. She acquired these in a sale in the bankruptcy court as she did the Eighth and Jackson streets property. She provides that in event of the death of either grandchildren, without issue, his share of the property goes to her son, H. T. Hessig. Until they are 21 years old the property is to be held in trust by the executors. Thirty dollars a month each is bequeathed for tuition and maintenance, the remainder of the income from rent shall be spent tending other property, or held until the heirs become of age.

A gold watch and chain is left to the grandson, Freddie Hessig, and all other property, household effects, personal, etc., is to go to H. T. Hessig and the grand children equally divided.

H. T. Hessig and Fred Kamleiter are appointed executors.

A FORMER PADUCAH GIRL PLUNGES INTO LAKE NEAR OMAHA.

A special from Omaha, Neb., says that Miss Hilda Swendby, of that city, formerly living near Paducah, plunged into Cutoff lake with suicidal intent, and was rescued by O. H. Plumbcock. It is believed she is demented. The young woman could not be identified here, as no one seems to remember her. She probably lived out in the country.

PRIVATE PROPERTY CROSSED BY SEWER

And Contract Cannot Be Let Next Saturday.

City Solicitor Campbell Finds That Courts Must Be Changed or Right Secured.

WILL CONSIDER IT MONDAY.

Advertisements for bids on the sewer extension have been held up indefinitely, pending a question as to right of way, which can not be settled until Engineer Alvord comes from Chicago Monday.

When City Solicitor Campbell was preparing the ordinance for the sewer work this morning, using the plans in City Engineer Washington's office to aid him, he discovered that the sewer route traverses the property of several citizens.

This discovery put an end to his labors. He immediately called into consultation Mayor Yeter and other city officials and explained to them that the city cannot construct the sewer until it has secured consent of the property owners to the use of their land.

Two plans are open to the city. It can condemn the right of way or secure grants from the property owners or confine the extension at present to that part of the district that can be reached without going onto private property.

The latter plan is advocated by City Solicitor Campbell, and he suggested that nothing further be done until Monday when Engineer Alvord can see the plans, and possibly rearrange them so as to keep off private property, at least, out Broadway where the school building is to be reached.

To await until rights of way can be secured or condemnation proceedings prosecuted would defer the work indefinitely. The bids were to be opened next Saturday, but this is impossible now, and the new advertisements will have to name a later date.

JUMPED FROM ENGINE

Because He Thought It Would Strike Yard Office.

Springing from his engine which he thought was going through the south yards office, Fireman Ernest Brakes, of 1242 North Twelfth street, sustained serious injury to his back this forenoon at 11:30 o'clock. The engine was No. 681, Foreman Will Straub, Engineer Paul Jones, and Fireman Brakes. The engine was switching and the tender left the siding and took to the main rails. From all appearances it was going to throw the big engine into the yard office and Brakes let go and alighted in a heap. His back was badly sprained and he was taken to the Illinois Central hospital for treatment.

Hues, resigned.

LOOKS SQUALLY IN THE FAR EAST

Russian Officer Says Japan Seeks War.

Island Empire Wants Vladivostok and Needs Only Excuse to Renew Hostilities.

EUROPE SHOULD TAKE A HAND

St. Petersburg, August 18.—A general who ranks next to General Grodekoff and who will probably succeed him as commander in Manchuria has just arrived in St. Petersburg with the latest news from the far east. Speaking to your correspondent today he said:

"Japan wants Vladivostok and the Amur region, and, believing the present moment auspicious on account of our internal trouble, may open hostilities next winter, the provisions of the Portsmouth treaty giving plenty of excuses. The most important points in controversy are the fishing rights in the Sungari and Amur rivers, the Manchurian frontier customs and the Russian commercial rights in Manchuria and Korea, which were left undecided. The more we yield, the more the Japanese demand."

"Their insolence has reached a high degree, Japanese armed military engineers are openly sketching the Vladivostok fortifications, while the Japanese living in Vladivostok and the Amur country ignore the Russian authorities."

"Japan purposely declined to permit outsiders having anything to do with the Portsmouth treaty, which was therefore unwitnessed, uncertified and unguaranteed. Our presence on the Amur and in Vladivostok forces the Mikado to maintain an army and fleet there, tying his hands so that he is compelled meekly to accept such incident as the killing of seal poachers by the Americans. This is the secret of Japan's anxiety to drive us beyond the Amur, thereby gaining a province and freedom of action."

"We believe that America and countries of Europe having interests in the far east should guarantee the status quo."

EARTHQUAKE

Reports Are Meager and No Details Are Obtainable—Business Is Resumed.

MALICIOUS

PROSECUTION ALLEGED IN SUIT IN CIRCUIT COURT.

One Blacksmith Charges That Another Had Him Arrested Without Probable Cause.

R. E. Cecil, a blacksmith, this morning filed suit in circuit court against W. R. Parker, another blacksmith, for $10,000 damages for malicious and false prosecution in the Paducah police court. On May 10 he was arrested at the instance of Parker, he alleges, for the theft of a watch valued at $25. He was arrested on the streets and greatly humiliated by being taken through the streets by a policeman. He states that he was fully exonerated and that the prosecution was without cause, and purely malicious. Both are well known tradesmen in the city.

Governor at Camp Harris.

Henderson, Ky., Aug. 18.—Gov. Beckham arrived here yesterday and was met by the First regiment, a committee from the Henderson Commercial club and the police department. He was accompanied by Percy Haley and other friends. The regiment and reception committee presented a long line of march, which ended when they arrived at Camp Harris, where he inspected the troops.

The man who first pays his entrance fee will have his name at the head of the list of candidates for the particular office he is running.

Chairman W. A. Berry was appointed to get bids for printing the ballots, for use in the primary. No other business came before the committee.

The candidates for police judge will be assessed $10 each and the candidates for councilmen, aldermen and school trustees $2 each.

A SIMPLE DEVICE WORTH FORTUNE

Breaks Thread on Knitting Machine and Saves Money

Paducah Man Solves Problem That Has Been Studied for Many Years by Mill Owners.

WILL MANUFACTURE IT HERE

A simple contrivance to break the thread of a knitting machine, which will mean the establishment of a factory and the exclusive manufacture of the patent here; and which will mean a fortune to the inventor and his associate, has stood the successful test of several weeks and active preparations for the manufacture of the inventions will be begun. A Paducah resident is the inventor, and Paducah is the home of the patent. The value of the device can be seen in an offer of several thousand dollars, which was turned down, because the inventor saw possibilities of more in the manufacture and sale of it.

Mr. E. O. Davis, assistant superintendent of the Dixie Knitting Mills, Eighth and Jones street, is the inventor and Dr. R. E. Hearne is his associate. The invention is simple—the result of Davis' constant application to the textile machines—and it will prove a matter of economy to the mill operators in several ways. It can save $15 a day in the ordinary knitting mill of 100 machines; it precluded danger of cuts to operators of the machines and lengthens the life of the machine. The patent can be held in the palm of the hand and yet it is something that inventors have sought to arrive at for years.

In knitting stockings the thread from the machines has to be broken by hand. A cutter had been invented but it has not proven economical. The sock has to be knitted at least half an inch longer in the toe where the article is finished, when the operator is breaking her own thread. This causes a waste of thread and a loss of time in handling the machine. Mr. Davis' patent breaks the thread.

"The average knitting mill runs 100 machines," Mr. Davis stated, "and my patent will save $17 a day on the 100 machines in thread and gaining of time for the employees. My patent has been tested for weeks on machines in this mill and has proved a success. I can save in addition to this time of the labor of the operators to the extent of at least 10 cents a day. It means a possibility of knitting more socks on machines fitted out with my patent, and it will run several dozens over the number knitted on machines where the operator has to break the thread."

"My patent is simply a thread breaker. It breaks the thread from the sock and it never fails. Cutters have proven unsuccessful because the knives have to be kept at a razor's edge and operators are often out with them. I conceived the idea of breaking the thread and set about to do so, and I have."

Mr. Davis is a modest young man. He started in the mills at an early age and naturally turned towards mechanics. He worked his way from apprentice to chief machinist and is now in charge of all machines in the Dixie mills. He also has another patent on another class of machine, which means a great deal in economy. In factories doing such an enormous business the saving of a penny on a dozen pairs of stockings will mean hundreds of dollars saved in a short time.

Mr. Davis and his associate turned down an excellent offer for the exclusive rights, the sale outright, of the patent but refused. They would rather manufacture the article, sell it to the consumer directly and make their profit in this way. They are contemplating putting up a factory at once, and it will doubtless mean another important industry to the city.

OVERCOME BY HEAT.

Al Foreman Falls From Bicycle on Broadway.

Overcome by today's oppressive heat, Mr. Al Foreman fell off his wheel on Broadway between Fifth and Sixth streets shortly after 1 o'clock. He was carried into Dr. G. H. Froage's office where he was relieved. It was only a slight attack but was sufficient to cause him to fall.

To Amuse The Paducah Public During The Winter

The Kentucky opens with big attractions, carrying forty people and special scenery --- His Highness, the Bey, next Thursday night. A A A

The most successful, gorgeous and glittering musical play success of the decade is "His Highness the Bey," which has just completed a five months' run in Chicago, where it returns after a short road tour for an added run. The book is by Howard and Adams and the music is from the most prolific music fountain in the country, Joseph E. Howard. Its success was instantaneous, emphatic and enduring and during the last weeks of the play drew more persons to the theatre than the opening nights. Had not arrangements already been made for other presentations, the comedy apparently could have remained indefinitely at the house. There is an abundance of melody that is catchy; comedy that forces one to hearty laughter; chorus figures and ensembles that are a delight to the eye; stage settings, fresh, gorgeous and bewildering electrical effects and novelties that dazzle in "His Highness the Bey," the season's triumphal musical show, direct from a five months' run in Chicago to be seen at The Kentucky on next Thursday night. The excellent cast includes such well-known names as Johnny Fogarty, Mabel McCane, George L. Cox, Ethel Dovey, Leo Kendall and 25 of the handsomest show girls in the country.

"A Soap Bubble" is a comedy with music which has enjoyed a popularity in this country and abroad for over fifteen years without ceasing. It returns to this country entirely re-written and brought up to the minute with special music written for it, and a company carefully selected for the portrayal of its farcical characters. Mr. Albert Denier, the principal comedian of the company, is frequently compared to Raymond Hitchcock of "King Dodo," "The Yankee Consul" and "Easy Dawson" fame; and, gliding in and out of his numerous comedy scenes with an ease which bespeaks the master of stagecraft, he keeps his audience in roars of laughter continuously. Mr. Denier was last seen in the musical comedy "His Highness the Bey," in which he played the title role. "A Soap Bubble" plays but one performance at The Kentucky Friday night.

Couldn't Understand.

Here is a good story as told by that clever German dialect comedian and singer, Al H. Wilson, who is appearing this season in his new Alpine play "Metz in the Alps," about a pair of twins living on Long Island. Some time ago one of the twins went into a barber shop and a new barber shaved him. An hour later his brother entered the shop and sat down in another chair. The barber who shaved the first one gasped; then he put up his razor and went to the boss, saying: "I guess I'd better take a rest. I'm not feeling well." "What's the matter?" asked the boss. "See that fellow there? Well, I shaved him close an hour ago, and here he is with a two days' beard on his face! I'm going to quit."

"A Wife's Secret."

The latest recruit to emotional melodrama from the ranks of Vaudeville favorites is Winona Bridges, the famous character actress, who is this season playing the unique role of Aunt Dilsey, the old Negro mammy in "A Wife's Secret," which comes to The Kentucky soon. Miss Bridges is acknowledged an actress of the foremost rank in black-face characters in this country. Being born and bred in the south, she has had every opportunity to become familiar with the real old southern darkey, and the part she plays in "A Wife's Secret" has many prototypes. Another member of the cast of "A Wife's Secret" who is most happily suited in her part, is Miss Grace Hopkins, who has risen to the top-most rank during the past few years in such roles as the leading part in "Way Down East" and other is due here soon, is not a sensational play. Its merit is thoroughly substantial and genuine, being a combination of absorbing story and one of the most notable scenic achievements of the modern stage. The celebrated mechanical triumph, which gives the play its name, the bridge scene, is after all, only an incident in the story of a blind mother's devotion and a long search for her lost child. Her pathetic quest led her, in the city of Chicago, to the river at the point where Chicago's engineering triumph, the huge Jack-knife bridge, lifts and closes its huge valves every day to let steamers pass. This operation has been most faithfully imitated as well as the structure itself.

NOT BLIND.

If love is blind, how can it be
That these blind eyes of mine can see.

As I was walking down the way,
The flutter of a garment gray
Beneath the windy willow tree?

And as I walked more rapidly,
How could I know she did not flee,
But made an innocent delay,
If love is blind?

I saw her soft hair blowing free,
I saw her flushing tenderly.

And in her eyes there shone a ray Caught from the east at dawn of
of day.

How could I tell it was for me,
If love is blind?

Crescendo and Matinee Musical Clubs

The musical genius may be said to be the highest order of mental endowment. Probably more than any other gift, it is native to the possessor. Intellectually may be assumed to a certain extent. But looking back over the list of great tone-poets, it is evident that their genius was present with their birth and developed as naturally as physically they grew.

It has not always been that they were the culmination of a line of musically gifted ancestors. Bach was, but Handel was not. The musical temperament, in a creative sense, is rare. In literature there is no lack of jingle writers, and correspondingly in music, the inferior and even the base find the most voluminous expression. Yet of the two, it could be said that the composer of poor music is more highly endowed than the writer of poor verse. The truly great in both music and literature must be produced by great souls and we would say that the soul which could produce the "Polonaise" was greater than the soul which produced "Crossing the Bar." But the influence of literature vastly is larger than music because the audience of the one is infinitely broader than the audience of the other.

An organized effort, then, to study the work of the great makers of music and the environment in which they produced their work, must certainly result in a strong uplift to the club members, and their improvement, when manifested in their lives and characters, will contribute much to the common stock of culture maintained by all the clubs.

The Crescendo club was the first club organized to that purpose. Last winter saw the organization of another and more ambitious club, the Matinee Musical club. Definite results from their organization immediately were manifested when two social attractions of the first winter were brought to the city. Seed for musical appreciation was then sown, which, if carefully nourished, will result in lifting the city distinctly in the scale of culture.

For Her Sister.

For the pleasure of her visiting sister, Mrs. Mark Anthony, of Lexington, Ky., Mrs. W. B. Mills entertained Tuesday morning at cards. Four tables were arranged for the players. The first prize was received by Miss Lillie Mae Winstead, a cut glass flagstone cologne bottle. Miss Margaret Park received the consolation prize, a copy of the Garden of Allah, which she presented to Mrs. Anthony. The decorations were sunflowers and the color scheme was carried out in the lace. The invitation list included: Mesdames Victor Voris, F. J. McElwee, Hubbard Wells, George B. Hart, C. L. Van Meier, John Richardson, Lawrence Gleaves and J. E. Baker, and Misses Hattie Newton, of Circleville, O.; Lillie Mae Winstead, Margaret Park, Clara Park, Mary K. Sowell, Hazel McCandless.

Bride Known Here.

A Pensacola, Fla., paper of a recent date gives the following: "The reception by the ladies of the Palafox church for Rev. J. B.

ney Butler and his bride, formerly Miss Williams of Nashville, Tenn., was a charming affair at the handsome home of Mrs. J. R. Saunders, which is stately and colonial throughout with beautiful frescoed walls.

"The bride's charming manner and gracious cordiality received much complimentary comment, showing that the 'new minister's wife' has won her husband's flock."

Mrs. Butler is a niece of Mrs. T. H. Puryear of this city, and as Miss May Williams has often visited her cousin Mrs. Samuel T. Hubbard, and made many friends here. She was recently married to the Rev. J. B. Butler, a Methodist minister stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

Well Known Here.

The Nashville Christian Advocate of a recent date gives the following account of the golden wedding of a couple well-known in Paducah, where the Rev. Dr. Mooney was at one time the pastor of the Third Street Methodist church. Mrs. Mooney is a gifted writer and co-worker of her husband. She is a sister of Will Allen Dromgoole, the writer. Mr. Mooney has been a minister 52 years, and retired only last year.

Boating Party.

Mrs. M. E. Ham chartered a party of young people on a boating party on the river Wednesday evening. The party went in a launch far up the Ohio. Refreshments were served. The "Vinegar Bible."

Old St. John's Church, Portsmouth, N. H., which is to celebrate its one hundredth anniversary next year, stands on the site of a less pretentious building named Queen Caroline's Chapel in honor of a Queen of England. In recognition of the honor the queen sent to the church a communion set which is still in use and two chairs one of which is serviceable yet, the other having been destroyed by fire. Perhaps the most interesting of all of the queen's gifts was the "vinegar Bible" still to be seen in the church. This was a Bible published in the year 1717 in Oxford by John Baskett, the King's printer. The printer made a blunder in setting up the "Parable of the Vineyard" so that it read the "Parable of the Vinegar." Forty copies of the Bible with this mistake in them were printed before the error was discovered and rectified. It is said that but four copies are now in existence and one of these is the copy Queen Caroline sent to the church named in her honor.

Vaccinating Frisco Folk.

Those who live in tents must be vaccinated, and those who will not be vaccinated shall not live in tents. That is the rule in the camps of which the army is in control, and out at Golden Gate park the campers are showing a disposition to take issue with the authorities.

Of the 1,600 campers in the park there are 400 who have not presented their arms to the surgeon. That was the count yesterday morning and the order had gone out that those who were not vaccinated at 9 o'clock last night must leave the park.

Each day a sentry goes to each tent and reads the order, with its penalty of expulsion from the garden for those who will not obey the law. It is anticipated that there will be a reproduction of a scene in the early history of the human family out at the park this morning, when 100 or more will be driven from their camps.

Apologized to Poll.

(From the Boston Herald.) An Irishman in Boston, who had made money in the contracting business, sent over to Ireland for a younger brother, who landed at Charleston and was taken around to see the sights. Passing through a park the greenhorn saw a parrot that had escaped from its cage and was perched on the limb of a tree.

"What a pretty bird; I would like to catch that," he said.

The brother tried to stop him, but he climbed the tree and started to crawl out on the limb when the parrot said, "Well, what is it?"

"Excuse me, sir," the greenhorn hastened to say, "I thought ye war a bird."

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "you were playing cards last night?"

"What makes you think so?"

"Because I heard some friends of yours talking this morning. They didn't mention any names, but I heard them say, 'Yes, he is the worst poker player I ever knew.'"

Daily Thought.

"Do not pine over what you can't help, but get a new grip on yourself, and go forward."

When Mayor Yeiser and the general council got together on a business proposition, wherein the public interests are at stake, things move, and a good example is the action taken by the committee of the whole, Mayor Yeiser presiding, last night
under a recent provision of the charter, the city may issue bonds to build sewers and do street work and collect the amount assessed against the property holders in ten annual installments, thus reimbursing the city for the expense and relieving the burden on the taxpayers. This appeals to us as the best method for general use, and we trust that steps will be taken in time to provide for such a bond issue before the next extension is to be made, as the cost of such improvements falls heavily on some property owners for a time.
In the end, of course, they must pay for the work but the installment plan makes it easier, while it costs
the city nothing in the long run.
But this is an emergency case, we are dealing with, and a bond issue would delay operations unconscion-ably. The health of the community is vitaly concerned in sanitary provisions for the big Washington school building and the Illinois Central shops, and the city is going ahead in the proper spirit. The sewer expenses are to fall on the beneficiaries, just as did the cost of the other sewers, and they probably will not object, as all these improvements must result in greatly increasing the value of their property, the prosperity of the city and the healthfulness of the neighborhood.

Old Mother Earth seems to be shaking up things in South America. Root has just succeeded in disseminating thoughts of peace among her children in that portion of the hemisphere.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal
must be a Hearst organ. It publishes a picture of George B. McClellan on its front page and calls him ex-Mayor McClellan.

Secretary Taft may console himself with the recollection that the boom of a cannon like the thunder is only a noise, and a signal that the danger is past.

Why does not the board of health advocate the purchase of refuse boxes for the street corners? Even Cairo, Ill., has them.

The luscious watermelon and the sparkling cider proved a deadly combination for one McCracken county lad.

Headlines read, "Valparaiso, Chili, badly shaken." Perhaps, Valparaiso has a clue.

BLACKSMITHS GO
OUT FOR HELPERS

Blacksmiths and Helpers, but in Paducah the lodges are separate. This is why a committee from both trades was selected.

"I think the men acted hastily and do not think that President Cline, of the national body at Chicago, will stand by them when the matter comes to a show down," he stated. "The matter was caused by a few hot heads, and I think when cooled down the men will see their mistake and return to work. The road has an agreement for arbitration of grievances and notice in advance of a strike. This matter was not conducted along the lines of the agreement made with the company this year."

Pay Cut Dissatisfactory.

Railroad men in Paducah state that the pay cut is not satisfactory and that efforts have been made from time to time to have the check sent by mail. It works a hardship on employees at times. If an employee is ill or unable to go to the pay car or is on duty at the time the pay master makes his rounds, he has to wait until the next month for his pay.

The Meeting This Morning.

The blacksmiths and helpers met this morning and decided to appeal to their district council at Chicago over which the national president presides. They want the union to act in instructing them before any answer is given the railroad, and because of this no result was had at the conference with Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull.

Master Mechanic Turnbull is a friend of the employees and pleaded with the strikers to appeal directly to the higher Illinois Central officials,
a course they naturally should pursue. They refused to take any such action until they heard from this council at Chicago. The meeting was adjourned pending word from Chicago.

In justice to Master Mechanic
Turnbull, by far one of the most liberal officials the local shops have ever had, a well-known Illinois Central employee stated this morning.

"If Assistant Paymaster Carroll was in the wrong, it was not the place of Mr. Turnbull to refuse to discharge the employee. Mr. Turn-bull's position is one of much delicacy. He took the course that he was supposed to take, and when he discharged the helper, was not supposed to act as a judge. The higher authorities are supposed to take up such matters, and if the paymaster's assistant was guilty of telling the boilermaker helper to 'Go to H—', as it is said he did, then the Illinois Central will tolerate him just about as long as it would tolerate any other person who would act in any such manner."

As the matter stands the strike is still on and until the council at Chicago responds with instructions,
the matter will remain as it is.

DETENTION

WARD AT ILLINOIS CENTRAL HOSPITAL WILL BE BUILT.Contract Let to Davis & Dunlap for $4,000 by Hospital Board
Yesterday.

After nearly two years of delay through unsatisfactory plans the detention ward at the Illinois Central railroad hospital on West Broadway is to be built, and work will begin at once. This matter was decided yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the hospital board here.

The contract was awarded to the firm of Davis & Dunlap, composed of B. T. Davis and J. L. Dunlap, and the cost is to be $4,000. It will be a combination contract, a kitchen and detention ward to be built. The present kitchen is in the middle wing of the building and sets under the wards.
There is little air gotten in the kitchen and an annex will be built. The old kitchen will be used for washing dishes, etc. The detention ward will be beyond the kitchen.

The meeting of the board was for this particular purpose and the decision was hastily reached. One or two other matters of minor importance were touched on but not definitely authorized.

MUNICIPAL

OWNERSHIP OF TRAMWAYS NOT SUCCESSFUL.Finds Much Boasted German Transportation Lines Behind Those of America.

New York, August 18.—A cable dispatch to the Herald from Berlin says Mayor McClellan, of New York, accorded a Herald correspondent an interview yesterday.

"I am sorry," he said, "that I shall not be home to take part in what undoubtedly will be a magnificent reception to Mr. Bryan, but my sailing plans will not land me in New York until a full week after the reception."

When asked about New York state politics, and whether he wanted the Democratic nomination for governor,
Mayor McClellan said:

"No, I have got enough troubles of my own, with three and a half years of New York still on my hands."

"Naturally, I have been looking into municipal government in Europe. I must say I fail to find the boasted superiority in Germany, of which we are accustomed to hear so much in America, particularly where the virtues on municipal operation of street tramways are so regularly held up as a lesson. The few examples I have seen are wholly bad.
Frankfurt and Dresden's municipality-owner lines not only handle a traffic judged inconsiderable by American standards, but do so in-efficiently and inadequately."

"I am more than ever convinced municipal operation is the last desperate resort, to be invoked only when private enterprise has been tried and failed."

PADUCAH FLOWERS

Will Probably Win Prize From Illinois Central.

This afternoon will decide if Paducah will capture the prize for having the prettiest and best kept railroad park on the Illinois Central system. This afternoon the inspectors are due here and will make a thorough inspection of the park at the depot, and local flower beds. The party is headed by the chief gardener of the Illinois Central from Champaign, Ill., and Mr. William Keller, chief gardener of the Louisville division, is in the party of 12.

James McLaughlin, keeper of the flower beds, has captured the prize for five consecutive years and intends to take it again. He has been working incessantly for weeks trimming up his flowers and carrying out his original ideas. He has the prettiest lawn possible to imagine and entertains no fear for his chances of getting the prize.

The party is coming from Louisville after an inspection of the flower beds on the division and will go south from here.

TOBACCO CROP

Ruined By Heavy Flood Waters of Branches.

From Graves county comes reports that in the "branch bottom" lands twenty-five per cent of the tobacco crop will be a total loss as the result of heavy rain and high water.

The tobacco was never looking better until the flood. The hail did not damage the crop so much as the back water from the branches due to the floods. Lowes and Pacey Farm neighborhoods are the greatest sufferers.

BEATING HORSES

PRACTICE THAT MUST BE BROKEN UP.Assesses Fine of Fifty Dollars Against Cruel Driver and Warns
Others.

Police Judge E. H. Puryear this morning assessed a fine of $50 and "trimmings" against Edgar Jeffords
for cruelty to animals.

Jeffords several weeks ago hired a horse from James Glauber, the livery man. The evidence showed that he made three trips to the country, and the print of the whip was visible on the horse for days after. Great ridges were raised where the whip was laid against the poor horse, and he was thus used, it is said, for several hours.

"I think this unpardonable, and intend to fine all persons brought before me charged with beating or cruelly driving horses which are lame or suffering in any way," Judge Puryear remarked.

For shooting a flobert rifle within the limits of the city, Police Judge
E. H. Puryear fined Frank Walston
$2 and costs. Seth Thomas Wilson, for being drunk, was fined $1 and costs.

Other cases: C. E. Gridley, breach of ordinance, continued; Adolph Weil, breach of ordinance, continued;
Thomas Norfett, obtaining property
by false pretenses, continued.

WORK TO PROCEED WITHOUT DELAYS

Is Decision of Mayor and General Council.

Property Owners Must Pay Cost of Sewer Extension and Estimates Will Be Made.

OBJECTIONS ARE SUSPICIOUS

No delay will be had and property owners along the route of the proposed sewer extension in district, No. 2, Ninth street to Thirteenth street, must pay for the improvement.

This was the decision of the general council in committee of the whole last night. The cost will be assessed against the abutting property according to estimates of the engineer and the contractor can look to the property for his pay, the assessment becoming a lien on the land.

The boards met in joint session last night at the call of Mayor Yeiser, who presided, Aldermen Palmer and Chamblin and Councilmen Herzog and Bennett were absent.

The question was raised about the terms of the advertisement for bids, which provided that 80 per cent. of the cost should be paid as the work progressed, according to estimates. The city has no funds available and the only way such a plan could be followed would be to issue bonds. The city solicitor held that no bonds could be issued without submitting the question to popular vote at a regular election.

This would delay the work until it could not be accomplished this year. It is the endeavor of the general council and Mayor Yeiser to get the system extended to the High school and the Illinois Central shops as soon as possible. Other extensions will be taken care of at a later date.

This delay caused the general council and Mayor Yeiser to favor the plan adopted and the action was unanimous, Mayor Yeiser voting.

"I am heartily in favor of the action of the general council in this matter," said Mayor Yeiser. "When there is public work of such an urgent nature and so favorably received by the people, I do not believe in trying to hinder operations. This council is Republican, while I am a Democrat, yet I believe we should go ahead and co-operate to secure these improvements. I am not in the least afraid that we are proceeding illegally."

Some question has been raised by people outside and inside the city departments that the property owners can not be assessed more than $1 per front foot. This is conceded by the city authorities, but the improvement probably will not exceed such an amount, and a new amendment to the charter throws this extra cost pro rata on those who are benefited by the extension.

She states that because of one attack he made on her, she was confined for several days and had the care of a doctor. She further alleges that he struck her in the back with a saucer of ice cream and drove away her daughter, whom she had taken home to protect her. She asks for $1,000 alimony.

KENTUCKIANS IN THE SADDLE NOW

In Several Important Government Departments.

Are Sitting On the Lid While Their Chiefs Are Taking Their Vacations.

GEN. BELL IN WAR OFFICE.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Kentuckians are having their innings at running the government now. They are sitting on the lid in several of the most important departments of the government during the absence of the heads of those departments. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of the staff of the army, during Secretary Taft's absence in Canada, holds the ranking office in the war department. Just now the chief of staff is particularly busy in connection with the summer maneuvers of regular and militia troops in various parts of the country and with the establishment of brigade posts for the army.

In the treasury department several Kentuckians are doing good work. Chief among these is Harry Giovannoli, who in the absence of his superior officer, Internal Revenue Commissioner John W. Yerkes, is the personal representative of that gentleman in many matters.

Controller of the Treasury R. J. Tracwell is enjoying a hard-earned rest at his home at Corydon, Ind., and Assistant Controller L. P. Mitchell, of New Castle, Ind., and Chief Clerk C. M. Force, of Shelbyville, Ky., are holding down the controller's job. Judge Force is just now engaged upon the enormous task of signing some tens of thousands of treasury warrants made payable to certain New York Indians and other government claimants.

On the other side of the treasury building John H. McDowell, formerly of Richmond, Ky., confidential clerk to the supervising architect, is looking after the interests of the new Kentucky buildings.

Kentuckians are at the head temporarily of two important bureaus in the postoffice department. They are Richard M. Webster of Cynthiana, and Charles A. Conrad, of Somerset. The first is acting assistant attorney general for the department, and, as such, has charge of the important work of the department in connection with the hearing and determination of fraud order cases. Mr. Conrad is acting fourth assistant postmaster general, P. V. DeGraw being away on his annual leave. Mr. Conrad has recently concluded an investigation of several bureaus under the fourth assistant's office.

John W. Langley, disbursing and appointment clerk of the census office, has been in charge of that bureau off and on for lengthy periods of late.

Why the Ladies of Paris are Beautiful.

Parisian ladies are noted for their great beauty and a keen American observer claims that their beauty is due to the proper care of the hair and the use of Parisian Sage.

In Paris the use of Parisian Sage, the wonderful regenerating French Hair Dressing is almost universal. This remarkable preparation is the discovery of a noted scientist, Prof. Giroux, and is now being generally sold in America and is especially in demand in New York society.

"I am now 57 years old and I have a nice head of dark colored hair caused (I am glad to say) by your Parisian Sage. I have used many 'Hair Restorers' and have received more benefit from your Parisian Sage than from all the others. I have found your 'Hair Restorer' the only one that would really restore the hair to its natural color. After the first application the dandruff disappeared and after a few applications I noticed my hair turning to its natural color. Mrs. James Harrison, 186 Monroe Ave., Rochester, N. Y."

Any woman can increase her attractiveness and have beautiful skin and luxuriant hair by using Parisian Sage. It is guaranteed to cure dandruff in six days or money back. Parisian Sage 50 cents a bottle. Sold and guaranteed by W. B. McPherson or can be had direct by mail from the manufacturers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y.

LABOR TROUBLES START DISORDERS

Russian Peaceful Strike Marks Awakening of People.

How Different Groups Broke Off From Main Body of Malcontents in Empire.

TERRORISTS BECAME ACTIVE

St. Petersburg, August 18.—The present revolution in Russia is very largely due to the workmen. They have furnished the force that has pushed it along.

In the summer of 1896 a phenomenon occurred in St. Petersburg, the like of which had never been dreamed of. The operatives in 22 cotton factories, numbering more than 30,000, struck for a reduction of their day's work to 12 hours, for a slight increase in wages, to be paid by the week; for one and one-half hours' time for dinner; to have their machines cleaned during the 12 working hours and for some other changes in the regulations.

The demands were so reasonable that Count Witte, then minister of finance, ordered the companies to grant them. The strike lasted only a few days. The methods employed by the strikers were perfectly peaceful; no violence occurred. The men simply stayed at home instead of going to work and sent committees to the managers to explain.

The professional Socialist agitators soon obtained control of the movement, and, in addition to peaceful demonstrations and suspensions of labor for the purpose of obtaining concessions in wages and hours, developed armed demonstrations against the government. The radical element went still farther and organized the "fighting branch" of the party, which soon made itself known by a series of political murders. Three of the cabinet ministers were assassinated and the sentence of death passed by "the people's will" was executed upon several other objectionable officials.

Naturally the conservative and the radicals separated, and, in 1902, what are now known as the social revolutionaries seceded from the social Democratic party, led by the Jewish Bund, the most energetic and dangerous Socialist organization in Russia. Maxim, the mysterious agitator, was the leader of that faction. He is now in the United States, a fugitive with a price set upon his head. The sum of $2,500 will be paid to anyone who delivers him dead or alive to the Russian police.

Maxim is a very remarkable man. His identity has never been definitely fixed. He wears a pseudonym, but it is known that he is a Polish Jew by birth, that he is a graduate of the University of Warsaw and that he studied law in the office of one of the principal attorneys in that city. Last year he left his studies and appeared at the head of a movement which tried to set up an independent republic on socialistic principles in the Baltic provinces.

Although not more than 24 or 25 years of age, pale, beardless and of delicate physique, Maxim has a wonderful power over his fellow beings and fairly enthalls every audience he addresses. He speaks five languages; his voice is powerful and musical, his manner is mesmerizing, and I am told that he can hypnotize his hearers until they almost become hysterical.

During his brief career as a revolutionary leader Maxim has had several narrow escapes from death and capture. Three or four have been almost miraculous, which increase his influence, for these experiences have added to the mystery which envelops him.

THROUGH WINDOW YOUNG MAN FALLS

The Step-ladder Slips and He Is Thrown Off.

Harry Young, Paper Hanger, Has a Narrow Escape From Death at Tate's Grocery.

ARM CUT IN SEVERE MANNER.

Thrown through a window at Tate's Grocery, Fifth and Jefferson streets last night, by a slipping stepladder, Harry Young, a paper hanger, was seriously injured and his escape from fatal injury was narrow. He was thrown through a window and but for the strength of the cross pieces in the sash might have had his throat cut. As it is he is disabled by the severing of an artery and leader in the left arm, and the injury may prove permanent.

Young resides on the north side and is a son of ex-Justice Jesse Young. He was papering the Tate grocery at Fifth and Jefferson streets. At 8 o'clock last night he had nearly finished and in his anxiety to complete the job that night moved too hastily. His ladder slipped as he mounted to the top with a strip of paper and he fell.

A closed window was below him and he fell against it. His left arm and shoulder went through and the arm was badly cut by the glass. The fact that the strong cross arms did not give way probably saved the paper hanger from going clear through the window and being fatally cut.

The wound was dressed by Dr. B. B. Griffith. This morning Young was able to be cut.

Thomas Hawkins against steamer Monie Bauer.

Whereas a libel was filed in the district court of the United States, for the western district of Kentucky, at Paducah on the 8th day of August, 1906, by Thomas Hawkins vs. steamer Monie Bauer, her engines, tackle, apparel, furniture, etc., and owners, alleging in substance that said steamer was indebted to him in the sum of three hundred and seven dollars, for wages, and that same has never been paid, and prays process against said steamer Monie Bauer, and that the same may be condemned and sold to pay said claim, with cost and expenses.

Now, therefore, in pursuance to the motion under seal of said court, to me directed I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said steamer Monie Bauer, or in any way interested therein, that they be and appear before the district court of the United States in the city of Paducah, Ky., on or before the 3rd day of September 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

The Manager Of the B. & A.

By VAUGHAN KESTER

Copyright, 1901, by Harper & Brothers

"Oh!" and Miss Emory lowered her eyes. So long as he was merely determined and stupid he was safe, but should he become sentimental it might be embarrassing for them both.

"You have seen my father. Do you think from what you can judge from appearances that he would kill a man in cold blood? It was only after years of insult that it came to that, and then the other man was the aggressor. What my father did he did in self defense, but I am pretty sure you were not told this."

He was swayed by a sense of duty toward his father and a desire to vindicate him—he was so passive and enduring. The intimacy of their relation had begotten warmth and sympathy. They had been drawn nearer and nearer each other. The claimant of his blood and race asserted itself. It was a point of honor with him to stand up for his friends and to stand up for his father most of all. Could he, he would have ground his heel into Hyder's face for his part in circulating the garbled version of the old convict's history. Some one should suffer as he had been made to suffer.

"Of course Mr. Ryder did not know what you have told me," Constance said lastly. She could not have told why, but she had the uneasy feeling that Griff required a champion, that he was responsible.

"Then you did hear it from Mr. Ryder?"

She did not answer, and Oakley, taking her silence for assent, continued: "I don't suppose it was told you either that he was pardoned because of an act of conspicuous heroism, that at the risk of his own life he saved the lives of several nurses and patients in the hospital ward of the prison where he was confined."

"He looked inquiringly at Constance, but she was still silent. "Miss Emory, my father came to me to all intents an absolute stranger. Why, I even feared him, for I didn't know the kind of man he was, but I have come to have a great affection and regard for him. I respect him, too, most thoroughly. There is not an hour of the day when the remembrance of his crime is not with him. Don't you think it cowardly that it should have been ventilated simply to hurt me, when it must inevitably hurt him so much more?"

He has quit work in the shops, and he is determined to leave Antioch. I may find him gone when I return to the hotel."

"And you blame Mr. Ryder for this?"

"I do. It's part of the debt we'll settle some day."

"Then you are unjust. It was Mr. Kenyon. His cousin is warden of the prison. He saw your father there and remembered him."

"And told Mr. Ryder," with a contemptuous twist of the lips.

"There were others present at the time. They were not alone."

"But Mr. Ryder furnished the men with the facts."

"How do you know?" And once more her tone was one of defiance and defense.

"I have been told so, and I have every reason to believe I was correctly informed. Why don't you admit that it was a cowardly piece of business to strike at me over my father's shoulder?" demanded Oakley, with palpable exasperation. The narrowness of her nature and her evasions galled him. Why didn't she show a little generous feeling? He expected she would be angry at his words and manner. On the contrary, she replied:

"I am not defending Mr. Ryder, as you seem to think, but I do not believe in condemning any one as you would condemn him—unheard."

She was unduly conscious perhaps that sound morality was on her side in this.

"Let us leave him out of it. After all, it is no odds who told. The harm is done."

"No, I shall ask Griff."

Dan smiled doubtfully.

"That will settle it if you believe what he tells you."

"His denial will be quite sufficient for me, Mr. Oakley," with chilly politeness.

There was a long pause, during which Dan looked at the carpet and Miss Emory at nothing in particular. He realized how completely he had separated himself from the rest of the world in her eyes. The hopelessness of his love goaded him on. He turned to her with sudden gentleness and said penitently:

"Won't you forgive me?"

"I have nothing to forgive, Mr. Oakley," with lofty self denial, and again Dan smiled doubtfully. Her saying so did not mean all it should have meant to him.

He swept his hand across his face with a troubled gesture. "I don't know what to do," he observed ruefully. "The turf seems knocked from under my feet."

"It must have been a dreadful ordeal to pass through alone," she said. "We are so distressed for your sake." And she seemed so keenly sympathetic that Dan's heart gave a great bound in his breast. He put aside his mounting bitterness against her.

"I don't know why I came to see you today. I just wanted to, and so I came. I don't want to force a friendship."

Miss Emory murmured that no excuse was necessary.

"I am not too sure of that. I must appear, bent on exhibiting myself and my woes, but I can't go into retirement, and I can't let people see I'm hurt."

His face took on a strong resolve. He couldn't go without telling her he loved her. His courage was suddenly riotous.

"Once, not long ago, I dared to believe I might level the differences between us. I recognized what they were, but now it is hopeless. There are some things a man can't overcome, no matter how hard he tries, and I suppose being the son of a murderer is one of these." He paused and, raising his eyes from the carpet, glanced at her, but her face was averted.

He went on, desperately: "It's quite hopeless, but I have dared to hope, and I wanted you to know. I hate to leave things unfinished."

There was a long silence, then Miss Emory said softly:

"I am so sorry."

"Which means you've never cared for me," he dryly.

But she did not answer him. She was wondering how she would have felt had the confession come forty-eight hours earlier.

"I suppose I've been quite weak and foolish," said Dan.

She looked into his face with a slow smile.

"Why do you say that? Is it weak and foolish to care for some one?"

"Wasn't it?" with suddenly kindled hope, for he found it hard to give her up.

Miss Emory drew herself together with a sigh.

"I never thought of this," she said, which was hardly true; she had thought of it many times.

"No," admitted Dan, innocently enough, for her lightest word had become gospel to him, such was his love and reverence. "You couldn't know."

Poor Oakley, his telling of it was the smallest part of the knowledge. "I think I see now, perfectly, how great a difference this affair of my father's must make. It sort of cuts me off from everything."

"It is very tragic. I wish you hadn't told me just now." Her lips trembled pathetically, and there were tears in her eyes.

"I've wanted to tell you for a long time."

"I didn't know."

"Of course you couldn't know," he repeated. Then he plunged ahead recklessly, for he found there was a curious satisfaction in telling her of his love, hopeless as it was.

"It has been most serious you—never. It has helped me in any way just to know you. It has cleared so many of my ideas. I can't be grateful enough."

Miss Emory approved his attitude. It was as it should be. She was sorry for him. She admired his dignity and repression. It made him seem so strong and purposeful.

"You will find your happiness some day, Mr. Oakley. You will find some one more worthy than I." She knew he would be insensible to the triteness of her remark.

"No," generously, "that couldn't be. I'll not find any one. I'll not look."

"Oh, but you will!"

Already, with the selfishness of her sex and a selfishness which was greater than that of her sex, she was regretting that she had allowed him to step so easily into the position of a rejected lover.

"I don't want you to think it is going to ruin my life," he said quietly, "or anything of that sort."

An appeal to her pity seemed weak and contemptible.

"I have striven to win what I can't have, what is not for me, and I am satisfied to have made the effort."

The Hoosiers, pennant aspirants and general all around wind jammers, have come and gone and they left sore.

It is a mild expression to their feelings. They could not lay it to the "umps," because the "umps" did all he could for them. It was a clear case of "outclassed," and even Eddie Kolb will have to acknowledge it.

Eddie Kolb says "we're all shot to pieces; not fit to play a game." This is how the Indians have been all the season.

Excuses are good. But away down in their hearts the Hoosiers have got a tender spot. They were beaten fairly and squarely. It was the hardest fought series of games in the history of the Kitty league, and it was not a matter of "horse shoe" with the Indians. For every score the Indians made they worked, and the fact can be attested by Kolb and his bunch.

Yesterday's Great Victory.

Yesterday the Indians finished first in a dual race. It was a double header and the first game went nine innings, the second five. Five innings were played because the Hoosiers had to get to the train, and they were glad to leave "Paduke."

This series will be a great cloud hanging over the Hoosiers' brilliant record this season, and in their dreams war clubs and war whoops will arouse them to the fact that they are away and in safety.

The first game resulted in a score of 7 to 2. Miller went in to throw for the Indians, but was wild. After one and a half innings Platt succeeded him with a cold wing. Platt showed his ability. The Indians piled up scores by hitting Perdue, who had relieved Chenault in the third inning. Chenault being struck by the ball and disabled. Perdue had worked hard the day before, and was not in form.

It was a hit and run affair and Indians' forms spotted the infield in confusion. Every time the Hoosiers would hit a ball an Indian would be there to block it. It was a case of fast and furious playing, and if the lick is kept up the Indians will be able to go against the Pittsburgh Pirates successfully.

Second Game.

The second game lasted five innings. Wright threw them for the Indians and Wilkinson for the Hoosiers.

"Pa" Wilkinson was a joke, and because of the "way he felt about it" in going in to relieve the regular twirler, the Indians did not hit him as hard as they might.

The Indians were merciful in this game and this is the story briefly told the summaries:

BODY BURNED

JOE KING NOT ALLOWED TO LIE AROUND WICKLIFFE, DEAD.

Shot in Colored Bar, But No One Witnessed Killing — Shoved Men Off Street.

Joe King, colored, who while drinking shoved three white men off the pavement in Wickliffe last week, remarking at the time that he did not give a "d—n" for all white folks, is dead and it was reported that because of the ill feeling towards him his body was permitted to lie in an undertaker's shop in a rough box without burial for several days, in fact that the body had never been buried. The Wickliffe town marshal denied the report. King was drinking and did have words with and shoved some men off the pavement, but it was thirty minutes after this that the shooting occurred. The shooting occurred in a colored bar, and no one saw it but the murderer. In fact the authorities can not find anyone who was in the bar at the time. The marshal states that the body was buried the next day, 21 hours after death.

JOE KING NOT ALLOWED TO LIE AROUND WICKLIFFE, DEAD.

Shot in Colored Bar, But No One Witnessed Killing—Shoved Men Off Street.

Joe King, colored, who while drinking shoved three white men off the pavement in Wickliffe last week, remarking at the time that he did not give a "d—n for all white folks," is dead and it was reported that because of the ill feeling towards him his body was permitted to lie in an undertaker's shop in a rough box without burial for several days. In fact that the body had never been buried. The Wickliffe town marshal denied the report. King was drinking and did have words with and shoved some men off the pavement, but it was thirty minutes after this that the shooting occurred. The shooting occurred in a colored bar, and no one saw it but the murderer. In fact the authorities can not find anyone who was in the bar at the time. The marshal states that the body was buried the next day, 22 hours after death.
